

Volunteer vacancy: Help us finish our chemsex e-course

Mainline is a Dutch harm reduction organisation whose mission is to improve the health and rights of people who use drugs. We are always looking for volunteers, and this might be an opportunity for you.

Ever heard of chemsex? It means the specific intention to use (a combination of) drugs in a sexual setting. To provide knowledge and learning on chemsex for international organisations, we developed an e-course. The course mainly focuses on men having sex with men (including trans people).

About our e-course:

We currently have a solid e-course on chemsex up and running. But we recently switched to a new learning platform and we would like to upload the existing course onto this new platform. Furthermore – we have worked hard to expand the existing course and we would also like to upload the new modules onto the platform. For this, we can really use some extra hands.

You are:

- Excited about Mainline's mission and interested in our chemsex project
- Interested in harm reduction for people who use drugs
- Part of or have affinity with the LGBTQI+ community
- A (creative) writer, fluent in written and spoken English
- The one we are looking for!

You have:

- Great organisation skills
- Affinity with facilitating learning
- Knowledge of Microsoft Programmes and/or online learning management systems
- Ability to work in a project independently and are happy to have autonomy

The amount of time you will devote to the chemsex project, depends on your availability and what you would like to invest. We have 4 to 6 hours a week in mind for around 12 weeks, starting in April. But let's get in touch and we can work out more details!

Send your CV and motivation (or questions) to Sjef Pelsser: s.pelsser@mainline.nl (before April 1st) and who knows we can welcome you to our team soon!
